MARQUETTE

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of understanding the cultural context of the research. It highlights the need for researchers to be sensitive to the values and beliefs of the communities they are studying. This is particularly important in the field of education, where cultural differences can significantly impact learning outcomes. The paper then moves on to discuss the challenges of conducting research in diverse cultural settings. It notes that researchers often face difficulties in establishing rapport with participants and in interpreting their responses. To address these challenges, the paper suggests several strategies, including the use of local researchers and the development of culturally appropriate research instruments. The final part of the paper discusses the importance of ethical considerations in cross-cultural research. It emphasizes the need for researchers to obtain informed consent from participants and to ensure that their research does not cause harm to the communities they are studying.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are illiterate has increased by 100 million.

There is a growing awareness that illiteracy is a barrier to economic development and that it is a major cause of poverty.

Many countries have started literacy programs to help people learn to read and write.

These programs have been successful in many cases, but there is still a long way to go.

It is important to continue to work on literacy programs to help people improve their lives.

There are many ways to do this, and it is important to find the best way for each country.

It is also important to make sure that people have access to the resources they need to learn.

With the right resources and the right programs, we can help people learn to read and write.

This will help them to improve their lives and to contribute to their communities.

It is our responsibility to make sure that everyone has the opportunity to learn.

Let's work together to make sure that everyone can learn to read and write.

It is the only way to make sure that everyone has a chance to improve their lives.

Let's make sure that everyone can learn to read and write.

It is the only way to make sure that everyone has a chance to improve their lives.

The staff of the 1959 Marquette feels that your last nine months can best be pictured by a single day. In that day, we have tried to crowd all the joys and sadnesses you have ever experienced in a school day

— from the depression experienced at the 8:20 bell

to the rapture expressed in the first chord of Prom's grand march.

In the same way you ran through those days

you will run through this book—stroll around the same campus . . .

meet the same friends and teachers . . .

cheer the same touchdowns and baskets . . .

and, we hope, recall with fondness those fast-fleeting days.

Religious Program

In the hour of trials

and in the hour of satisfaction

we students seek the gentle guidance of the Blessed Virgin.

To her, who is the soothing peace that comforts

and encourages, we lovingly dedicate this book

Bishop Andrew G. Grutka, D.D.

FACULTY

Seek to delight,
That they may mend mankind.
And while they captivate,
Inform the mind.

SPORTS

*If you can dream — and not make dreams your master;
If you can think — and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two imposters just the same; . . .
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty second's worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And — which is more — you'll be a Man, my son!*

Field Day

Lives of great men all remind us
 We can make our lives sublime,
 And, departing, leave behind us
 Footprints in the sands of time.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office of National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the community. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out a vision for the future of older people's services. The strategy is based on the following principles: older people should be able to live independently in their own homes; older people should be able to access the services they need; and older people should be able to participate in the decisions that affect their lives.

The strategy also sets out a number of objectives for the future of older people's services. These include: to improve the quality of care; to increase the choice of services; to improve the accessibility of services; to improve the financial sustainability of services; and to improve the effectiveness of services. The strategy is a key document for the development of older people's services in the UK.

There is a growing awareness of the need to develop strategies to meet the needs of the ageing population. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for ageing, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of older people. The strategy is based on the following principles: (1) to ensure that older people have the opportunity to live independently and actively; (2) to ensure that older people have access to the services and support they need; and (3) to ensure that older people are treated with respect and dignity.
